Newsletter – Coloquium 2023 RED

XVII Latin American Colloquium on Discourse Ethics and XI Colloquium of the International Network on Discourse Ethics.

Date and Location:

This year's Colloquium on Discourse Ethics 2023 will be held in "Villa General Belgrano" (Córdoba Province) on November 8, 9 and 10, 2023.

Organization:

For organizational reasons, the colloquium will be held in a presentational/virtual format and partially in conjunction with the ICALA Foundation's annual interdisciplinary conference, whose theme this year is "Democracy. Crisis, Challenges and Prospects". Participants may submit papers on issues related to the thinking of the founders of discourse ethics and its classical version, new developments in discourse ethics, confrontation with other theoretical positions, etc., as well as on the general theme of the meeting from an ethical-discursive perspective.

Submission of contribution proposals:

We kindly ask you to send your contribution proposals to the mail address michelini.rio@gmail.com by July 31, 2023 in order to prepare the preliminary program.

Submission of abstracts:

Please, send us the abstracts of the papers (up to 2000 words) by the end of September so we can send them to the other colloquium participants and to the commentators in time.

Final versions:

We would like to publish the final, revised and extended original version of your paper in the journal Ethics and Discourse. The texts should be available by February 2024 at the latest.
